Monthly Commentary

August proved to be a volatile month for equity markets. A rise in the VIX index (a measure of market volatility) and equity market declines were influenced once again by the social media activity of the US President. Donald Trump announced another escalation in the Trade War with China by threatening to impose additional tariffs on over $300 billion worth of Chinese imports. With trading volumes thin during the European holiday season, demand for “safe haven” assets soared. Global bond yields continued their decline, with the staggering consequence that the total market value of negative yielding debt reached over $16 trillion. In Europe, the headlines were dominated by weak economic data, especially in Germany, and increasing political uncertainties, notably in Italy and the UK.

During August, the NAV of the share class declined by 2.9% in Sterling terms, 0.5% behind the MSCI Europe Small Cap benchmark index.

The strongest contribution during the month came from MTU Aero Engines, the German aircraft engine manufacturer, which benefited from strong passenger numbers during the busy holiday period. CTS Eventim, the provider of ticketing services in Europe, announced the partial acquisition of France Billet, the ticketing distributor in France, with an option to acquire the remaining stake at a later date. Big Yellow, the market leader in the UK self-storage sector, performed strongly in August as the company benefited from a broker upgrade.

The weakest contribution came from IMCD, the speciality chemicals distributor, which announced disappointing Q2 results amid a cooling in industrial-related products. First Derivatives, the developer of highly efficient time-series databases, continued to suffer following the untimely passing of its founder and CEO. Clipper Logistics, the provider of logistics solutions to the retail sector in the UK, underperformed following a set of results that was below market expectations.

We live in a world in which sentiment can be directed by a person living in a white house with a fondness for keying pithy statements into his phone. It is likely that the US President will become ever more volatile in the run-up to next year’s election. Investors in Europe are perhaps a little more used to investing against a backdrop of political uncertainty. Italy, after all, is now on its 66th government since 1946.

Yet it is the prospects for growth that most concerns investors, given the weakness in economic data. As ever in this long Bull Market, Central Banks stand at the ready. Borrowing costs in Europe remain low – and the ECB is expected to unveil new stimulus measures in the coming month. Whether this will be enough to offset a general cooling of the world economy remains to be seen. Reason enough for investors to focus on companies with strong balance sheets that may be less exposed to slowing growth than their more leveraged counterparts.

Risk and Reward Profile

These numbers rate how the Fund may perform and the risk of losing some or all of your investment. In general the potential for higher returns also implies a higher level of risk. However, the lowest category (1) does not mean a risk free investment.

This risk rating is based on historical data which may not be a reliable indication of the future risks and rewards of the fund. The risk rating of the fund may change over time.

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. All investments are subject to risk and the value of shares and the income from them can fall as well as rise due to stock market and currency movements. You may not get back as much as you originally invested.
